YAPPY RIDERS CORNERBACK DWIGHT ANDERSON SET TO BATTLE HIS FORMER ALOUETTES TEAMMATES ON SATURDAY PAGE 16

Saskatchewanderer answers the call of the province

'Amazing adventure.' Caitlin Taylor sailed, hiked and motorbiked as part of the best summer job ever

ALYSSA MCDONALD
alyssa.mcdonald@metronews.ca

Caitlin Taylor travelled more than 12,000 kilometres exploring new places this summer — all while staying within Saskatchewan's borders.

In her position as the provincial government's "Saskatchewanderer," she visited festivals and national and provincial parks. The 21-year-old also saw Saskatchewan from the sky in both a plane over the Qu'Appelle Valley and a hot-air balloon over Saskatoon, which was her favourite experience.

"It was a really neat experience to see my hometown from above," said Taylor, who was raised just outside of Saskatoon. "And when you are in a hot-air balloon you are floating with the wind — you don't feel the wind so it's just a really neat feeling."

Taylor started her journey in May and has since travelled to the far reaches of the province, canoeing up north at Otter Lake, horseback riding in Cypress Hills and watching models on the catwalk at Saskatchewan Fashion Week in Regina.

"My summer has been absolutely awesome. It's been just an amazing adventure travelling Saskatchewan.

"Standup paddle-boarding, canoeing, kayaking, fishing, sailing, hiking and motorbiking — I have just done so much."

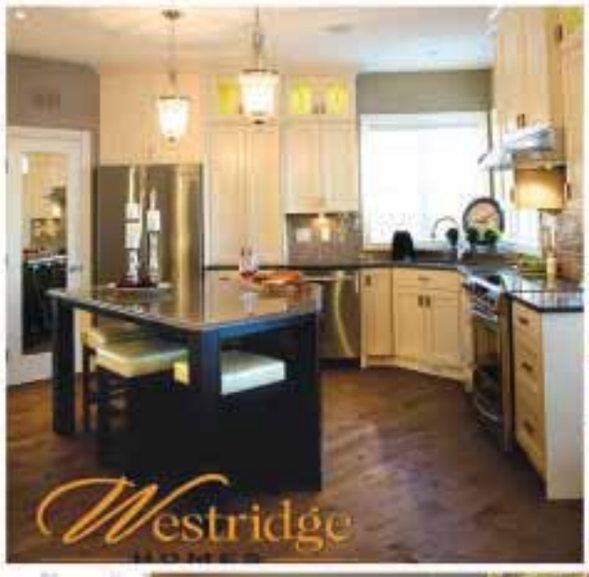
Taylor shared her adventures through videos, blog posts and several social-media platforms. One of her photos — a "Where's the Wanderer?" picture from the A&W restaurant in Davidson — got 30,000 views on Facebook.

"(She's) doing things and trying things that, for most of us, is out of our comfort zone," said Kevin Doherty, minister of parks, culture and sport, on Thursday.

"I think (she) is inspiring young people to go out and try those things in your province."

Now that her job is done, Taylor will head back to the University of Saskatchewan. She says her journey has helped inspire her to go into a field related to journalism, photography or marketing.

OUR NEW HARBOUR LANDING SHOW HOME



Westridge
HOMES

Show Home Opening
August 24

4949 Wright Road – Harbour Landing

Saturday, August 24th 1pm – 4pm
Sunday August 25th 2pm – 4pm

Our New Harbour Landing show home has an exterior featuring dark oak v-ribbed overhead doors and acrylic stucco with stone accents. As you walk up to the front step, a flagstaff plank front door welcomes you into the home.

Step inside onto driftwood coloured tile and find nine foot ceilings that complement the size of the rooms. Walk past the powder room with its tile accent wall and the stairway into a large kitchen and great room.

The kitchen features an oversize island that is eight and a half feet long and finished in a rich peppercorn colour with a quartz countertop that is offset by the ceiling high maple cabinets which are finished in a clove colour. Pewter coloured oak flooring anchors the rooms for a balanced effect. Enjoy the large windows on the main floor which overlook the creek and pathways behind the house. To the right is the gas fireplace in the great room with its floor-to-ceiling stone face and behind is an office with similar stone accents. Off to the left is the dining area with garden doors to a barbecue deck that has glass panel railing so as not to block the view of the green space behind the house. Open a pocket door off the kitchen to find a closet, bench and hooks in a mudroom with a tile floor that provides access to the triple car garage which is insulated and finished in the same colours as the house.

Walk up the stairs while enjoying the natural light from the large window in the stairwell – bte careful not to miss the coffered ceiling above the stairs. At the top of the stairs off to the right is the carpeted master bedroom complete with en-suite featuring a stand-alone tub with a tile accent wall and a separate tile shower. The en-suite has easy access to a walk-in closet and the laundry room which is a perfect set-up for shift workers not wanting to disturb their sleeping partner when dressing and leaving. The other three bedrooms all have their own walk-in closets with custom built closet organizers. Rounding out the upper floor is a full bathroom with its own tile shower and clove coloured vanity with a quartz countertop. Going back down the stairs to the lower walkout level, you will again find nine foot high ceilings. This level features one bedroom, a full bathroom, a wet bar with a stone feature wall and pendant lighting, along with a large family room for entertaining. For comfort, the concrete slab is insulated with in-floor heat, and the walls and joist ends are all spray foamed. It is again hard to miss the many windows that look onto the back yard and the garden doors opening to a patio giving access to the yard and walking pathways that make up Harbour Landing. The house is 3300 sq ft finished on all three levels (2243 on main floor and upper with another 1057 on the walk-out level).

Supreme Court won't hear union's appeal in Walmart case

Canada's largest private-sector union has been dealt a blow in its long legal battle with a Walmart store in Saskatchewan.

The Supreme Court of Canada will not hear the United Food and Commercial Workers' appeal of decisions by the Saskatchewan Labour Board on the union's accusations of unfair labour practices.

That means an application to decertify the union will proceed, and include votes already cast by employees at the store in Weyburn, which had been set aside.

City demolishes Heritage building to make way for new stadium

One down, two to go.

Construction crews demolished the Heritage building at Evraz Place Thursday morning, marking the first step in the city's plan to host the new stadium and future home of the Saskatchewan Roughriders at the site.

The city also plans on demolishing the neighbouring Jubilee and Saskatchewan buildings, as well as a storage shed and four concrete pads to clear way for the new stadium, Jeffrey Holland, the city's acting manager of engineering services, told Metro.

With a little luck? McCartney concert execution fantastic: City

Logistics. Show went 'very smoothly,' say city staff, except maybe the long bus lineups

MARCO VIGLIOTTI
marco.vigliotti@metronews.ca

Coming on the heels of April's Juno Awards, Paul McCartney's sold-out concert at Mosaic Stadium Wednesday night provided another strong showcase for the city of Regina, organizers said Thursday.

"It's incredible we can have an international icon like Paul McCartney in our city," said Jeff Erbach, cultural development co-ordinator with the city of Regina. "That we can do that in conjunction with Junos and (this November's) Grey Cup really signals that Regina is a wonderful city in this country."

From the city's perspective, Erbach said the event went "very smoothly" despite the "expected" lineups for certain services.

Some concertgoers said the lines for the event shuttle buses were far too long, and Erbach acknowledged that the event stretched the city's transportation infrastructure.

"We contracted every bus that was available (for the shuttle service)," he said. "We were running 76 individual loads (using 38 buses) every hour out of five sites — we knew there were going to be lineups."

The average length of a trip from the stadium to the designated "drop-off" points was "roughly" one hour, Erbach noted.

"That doesn't mean that it took everyone an hour to get back to their pickup points — that's an important thing to know," he added. "Some people saying that they were getting on buses and getting back to their drop-off points in 20 minutes."

With crews continuing to tear down the stage on Thursday morning, Evraz Place staff maintained that the field would be ready for Saturday's Saskatchewan Roughriders home game against the Montreal Alouettes.

Neil Donnelly, with Evraz Place, said staff would apply some of the lessons learned from the concert as they prepare for this year's Grey Cup game in November.

Crews began tearing down the stage and additional seating from the Paul McCartney concert Wednesday night at Mosaic Stadium. MARCO VIGLIOTTI/METRO

Senate mulls more payback for Wallin

The Senate hasn't yet decided whether to order Sen. Pamela Wallin to pay back more money for her travel to so-called "networking events."

But Conservative Sen. Carolyn Stewart Olsen says there are lingering questions about "quite a few" of those claims, which came to nearly $21,000.

"Our committee did review the claims in question and asked Finance to do more research for us," she said in an email Thursday.

"I do not have an idea of amounts right now. Will probably take some time to sort out."

Some of those networking events include Wallin's meeting with someone from the New York City Ballet; with a Bay Street investor to talk about a business she was about to buy; and with someone to talk about a book project.

Teens in Rehtaeh Parsons case appear before court

Child-porn allegations. Pair will be back in a month to give attorneys time to review evidence

RUTH DAVENPORT
Metro in Halifax

The two young men facing child pornography-related charges arising from the Rehtaeh Parsons case will return to Halifax youth court in September.

The 18-year-olds were arraigned Thursday morning, but their lawyers asked for an adjournment, saying they needed time to review the case against their file.

"We've received nothing other than a few bits of disclosure five minutes before we stepped into the courtroom," defence attorney Josh Arnold told reporters after the brief appearance.

Michael Parsons, uncle of Rehtaeh, believes the two accused should have been charged with manslaughter.
ANDREW VAUGHAN/THE CANADIAN PRESS

Rehtaeh took her own life in April, reportedly after two years of bullying over an alleged sexual assault when she was 15.

The accused were arrested on Aug. 8. One is charged with creating and distributing child pornography. The other faces two charges of distribution.

Rehtaeh's uncle told reporters afterwards he wasn't satisfied with the charges.

"I think they should be charged with manslaughter," said Michael Parsons, who believes the alleged child pornography, distribution and subsequent bullying "caused that much anger within her that she had to take her own life."

Arnold said intense emotion is to be expected but expressed concern regarding the scrutiny surrounding his client.

"It appears that individuals on the Internet and certain members of the media conducted their own one-sided trial," he said.

Arnold said the case would likely be heard by a judge alone, rather than a judge and jury.

Fair-trial rights

"These boys have not been prosecuted in the media.... It was only through the media participation that this case is even being looked at today."

Death toll soars in Egypt as violence spills into 2nd day

Turmoil spreads. Police, churches and government buildings attacked as Muslim Brotherhood calls for mass rally on Friday

Weeping relatives in search of loved ones uncovered the faces of the bloodied, unclaimed dead in a Cairo mosque near the smouldering epicentre of support for ousted president Mohammed Morsi as the death toll soared past 600 Thursday from Egypt's deadliest day since the Arab Spring began.

World condemnation widened for the bloody crackdown Wednesday on Morsi's mostly Islamist supporters, including an angry response from U.S. President Barack Obama.

Violence spread Thursday, with government buildings set afire near the Pyramids, policemen gunned down and scores of Christian churches attacked. As turmoil engulfed the country, the Interior Ministry authorized the use of deadly force against protesters targeting police and state institutions.

The Muslim Brotherhood, trying to regroup after the assault on their encampments and the arrest of many of their leaders, called for a mass rally on Friday in a challenge to the government's declaration of a nationwide state of emergency and a dusk-to-dawn curfew.

At least 638 people were confirmed killed and nearly 4,000 wounded in the violence sparked when riot police, backed by armoured vehicles and bulldozers, smashed the two sit-ins in Cairo where Morsi's mainly Islamist supporters had been camped out for six weeks calling for his reinstatement. It was the deadliest day by far since the 2011 popular uprising that toppled autocratic ruler Hosni Mubarak and plunged the country into more than two years of instability.

The Health Ministry said in a statement that 288 of those killed were in the largest protest camp in Cairo's Nasr City district, while 90 others were slain in a smaller encampment at al-Nahda Square, near Cairo University. Others died in clashes that broke out between Morsi's supporters and security forces elsewhere in the Egyptian capital and other cities.

Foreign affairs. Egyptian authorities must 'protect worshippers': Baird

Foreign Affairs Minister John Baird says he's concerned about attacks on religious institutions as violence continues in Egypt.

In a statement, Baird and Andrew Bennett, Canada's ambassador for religious freedom, call attacks on Christian churches in Egypt unconscionable, and they say authorities need to protect worshippers.

"We are concerned by recent attacks on religious institutions in Egypt, in particular the unconscionable attacks on Coptic Orthodox and Anglican churches, and on Baptist and Franciscan institutions," the statement reads.

"Attacks on places of worship are unacceptable. Canada calls on Egyptian authorities to protect worshippers and religious sites from violence and intimidation."

Deadly car bomb hits Beirut

A powerful car bomb tore through a Beirut neighbourhood that is a stronghold of Hezbollah on Thursday, killing at least 18 and trapping dozens in an inferno of burning cars and buildings in the bloodiest attack yet on Lebanese civilians linked to Syria's civil war.

The blast is the second in just over a month to hit one of the militant group's bastions of support, and the deadliest in decades. It raises the spectre of a divided Lebanon being pulled further into the conflict next door, which is being fought on increasingly sectarian lines pitting Sunnis against Shiites.

Syria-based rebels and Islamist groups fighting to topple Syria's President Bashar Assad have threatened to target Hezbollah strongholds in Lebanon in retaliation for intervening on behalf of his regime in the conflict.

Which one is the $10K doughnut?

Flavour faceoff.
Tim Hortons contest whittled down from 63,000 entries to two

After weeks of voting and much pondering by a panel of judges, Tim Hortons' Duelling Donuts contest has come down to the final faceoff.

The Oreo Borealis — a reinvention of the classic Nabisco cookie — will take on the Tortoise Torte, a chocolate-caramel-pecan confection, for the $10,000 grand prize. A Tim Hortons spokesperson also said it was "expected" that the winner would have their doughnut recreated in stores nationwide.

The Oreo Borealis is the creation of Jason Flannery, of London, Ont.; the Tortoise Torte was dreamed up by Toronto's Andrew Shepherd.

Canadians submitted some 63,000 entries, which were whittled down to eight doughnuts in July with the help of a panel of judges that included Beverly Hills, 90210 actor Jason Priestley.

The contest was dreamed up after Priestley appeared in an episode of the sitcom How I Met Your Mother last February, which riffed on the idea that Canadians were defined by their double-doubles and Dutchies. In a fake documentary, the Los Angeles-based actor claimed he had invented The Priestley, a strawberry-vanilla doughnut with a chocolate Timbit nestled inside.

Tim Hortons then created a batch of the fictional pastry, and asked Canadians to bring their own doughnut dreams to life from any combination of ingredients in their pantries. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Drive-ins face digital dilemma

Through 80 summers, drive-in theatres have managed to remain a part of the North American fabric, surviving technological advances and changing tastes that put thousands out of business. Now the industry says a good chunk of the 350 or so left in the U.S. could be forced to turn out the lights because they can't afford to adapt to the digital age.

Movie studios are phasing out 35-mm film prints, and the switch to an eventually all-digital distribution system is pushing the outdoor theatres to make the expensive change to digital projectors.

The $70,000-plus US investment required per screen is significant, especially for what is in most places a summertime business kept alive by mom-and-pop operators. Paying for the switch would suck up most owners' profits for years to come.

"Everyone knows eventually that you'll be digital or you'll close your doors," says Walt Effinger, who co-owns the Skyvue Drive-In in Lancaster, Ohio. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Downton merch set to take off

Forget Mad Men modernism. This season's style is all about Downton Abbey's Edwardian opulence.

Millions around the world have been seduced by the strait-laced but stylish world of the British historical drama. Soon they'll be able to take some of that style home, getting lips as soft as Lady Mary's, wine inspired by Lord Grantham's favourite tipple and even walls as grey as Mrs. Patmore's kitchen.

Since it premiered in 2010, the series about the family and servants of a grand English house in the 1910s and 1920s has become a television juggernaut, sold to 220 territories around the world.

The program's makers have arguably been slow to exploit the commercial potential of that popularity. But that is about to change. Along with the fourth season starting on British TV next month, and on PBS in January, comes a range of merchandise that includes a board game, homewares, clothes, beauty products and even Downton wine.

Real estate

Vancouver, T.O. boast strong resales

Homes were selling at a brisk pace in Vancouver and Toronto last month, while the national average price continued to rise, suggesting Canada's real-estate industry has returned to "average levels" after a decline that began last summer.

A Canadian Real Estate Association report on July activity showed resales edging up 0.2 per cent from June on a seasonally adjusted basis and up 9.4 per cent from July 2012, when tighter rules put the brakes on lenders and buyers.

Despite the recent uptick, the total of 284,865 homes that traded hands in the first seven months of 2013 is 4.6 per cent fewer than the corresponding period last year.

Canada Mortgage and Housing Corp. said Thursday that the western provinces are helping stabilize construction activity and momentum will build into next year. THE CANADIAN PRESS

New species in South America

Imagine a mini-raccoon with a teddy-bear face that is so cute it's hard to resist, let alone overlook. But somehow science did — until now.

Researchers announced Thursday a rare discovery of a new species of mammal called the olinguito. The reddish-brown animal is about two feet long with a long tail and weighs about two pounds.

It belongs to a grouping of large creatures that include dogs, cats and bears.

The critter leaps through the trees of mountainous forests of Ecuador and Colombia at night, according to a Smithsonian researcher who has spent the past decade tracking them.

Outside experts said this discovery is not merely renaming something, but a genuine new species — with three new subspecies — and a significant find, the type that hasn't happened in about 35 years.

Synopsis

"You hear nothing. You see nothing. You only serve." Those are the words of advice given to former plantation worker Cecil Gaines (Forest Whitaker), on his first day as a butler at the White House. For the next three decades he was a witness to history, serving eight presidents during the stormiest days of America's history. Gaines turns away, but his son Louis (David Oyelowo) becomes involved with the Freedom Riders and later with the Black Panthers. Father and son don't see eye-to-eye despite mother Gloria's (Oprah Winfrey) best efforts to unite them. Steve Gow takes over for Reel Guy Mark Breslin.

RICHARD CROUSE AND MARK BRESLIN

Forest Whitaker gives a stirring performance as the man behind the men in The Butler. CONTRIBUTED

The Butler did it, with his son, in the White House

Movie review.
Forest Whitaker's performance, coupled with David Oyelowo's work, keep historical drama from slipping into melodrama

Richard: Steve, at the centre of The Butler is Forest Whitaker's remarkable performance, which skillfully tempers the film's tendency to veer into melodrama. He's a dignified presence throughout, in a quiet performance that allows the character's inner life to shine through. It's all about the details. The way he strokes the tie Jackie Kennedy gave him after JFK's assassination. The pained looked in his eye as he kicks his son out of the White House. They are small moments that cut through the movie's sweeping story, keeping the whole thing grounded.

Steve: It's a nuanced performance that definitely helps counterbalance what could've become a melodramatic civil rights morality tale. Not only that, but it's powerful because Whitaker and director Lee Daniels allow us to see racism as an institutionalized issue whereas most films on the topic simply personalize it. As strong as the huge ensemble cast is though, there are a few distracting duds. Besides sporting a waxy Pinocchio-like proboscis, was John Cusack even trying to portray Richard Nixon?

RC: It's almost as if Cusack is doing an impression of someone doing an impression of Nixon. Perhaps they should have pulled Rich Little out of retirement to do the role. Nonetheless, Cusack does capture some of Tricky Dick's oily desperation, but it is a surreal performance overall. The casting of the other presidents — Robin Williams as Eisenhower, James Marsden as JFK, Liev Schreiber as Johnson, and Alan Rickman as Reagan — feels stunty, but director Lee Daniels realizes the story isn't theirs to tell and wisely keeps the focus on Gaines and family to tell this story. I thought David Oyelowo was terrific. You?

SG: I thought Oyelowo pretty much stole the show — not easy considering he's opposite the likes of Whitaker and Oprah and plays the range of a butler's disgruntled teenaged son-turned civil rights radical to middle-aged Obama supporter. More to the point, Daniels' may be most successful exploring the strained relationship between him and his straitlaced father.

RC: Their strained relationship was pushed to the limit by the tone of the times. The overall timeline will be familiar to anyone who's ever watched the History Channel, but The Butler recounts the turbulent times through one man's deeply divided family, bringing the story home with simple, first person storytelling.

SG: To that end, Daniels surely deserves some recognition. After all, it's probably impossible to effectively wedge the civil rights issue into a two hour movie. At least The Butler allows for a fascinating perspective.

Biography/Drama

Jobs

Director. Joshua Michael Stern

Stars. Ashton Kutcher, Dermot Mulroney

Jobs takes us from Steve Jobs' (Ashton Kutcher) Paulo Alto, Calif., days where he and his friends redefined the way people interact with technology, through to his rise and fall as Apple's CEO and on to his eventual redemption. Serving as a reminder of how rare it is to find an extraordinary film about an extraordinary person, the movie isn't innovative or bold enough to be memorable. Perhaps it's because it's hard to take Kutcher seriously in the role of a visionary, but Jobs feels better suited to TV than the big screen.

RICHARD CROUSE

Thriller

Paranoia

Director. Robert Luketic

Stars. Liam Hemsworth, Gary Oldman, Amber Heard

A thriller with precious few thrills, Paranoia promises edge-of-your-seat espionage drama, but flatlines from the start. Liam Hemsworth does the best he can with a stale script, and the Gary Oldman/Harrison Ford duo manage to occasionally defibrillate some life into the film with their verbal swordplay — but there's just not enough of it. The story is about as believable as a pro wrestling match, and with no real surprise twists or turns, the first time watching Paranoia feels like the 50th.

COLIN MCNEIL

Action/Comedy

Kick-Ass 2

Director. Jeff Wadlow

Stars. Aaron Taylor-Johnson, Chloe Grace-Moretz, Jim Carrey

Kick-Ass wants to take a bigger bite out of crime, while his would-be partner, 15-year-old Hit-Girl, just wants to be a teenager. It's that second part where this sequel finds its legs, pitting Mindy, Hit-Girl's alter-ego, against a group of high school mean girls. Meanwhile Kick-Ass befriends a team of amateur heroes led by a brilliantly unhinged Jim Carrey. But the real conflict comes from a group of super villains who have set their sights on Kick-Ass. The resulting build to the climatic final battle is the movie's lone rough patch.

Carrie Fisher talks about support from fans

Film. Now 56, Carrie Fisher still maintains and enjoys her ties to the Star Wars world

It's been 36 years since Star Wars came out, introducing the world to the iconic double-bun hairstyle of Princess Leia — but for Carrie Fisher it's clear that the ardor hasn't faded.

And it's on full display at fan conventions — like Toronto's Fan Expo Canada, which runs from Aug. 22 to 25 — where she'll occasionally receive the oddest of requests.

"Generally, it's people having me sign their bodies so that they can have it tattooed," she marvelled from her home in Los Angeles. "That's happened a few times now. ... It wasn't in weird spots, it was just really going to hurt, like on the palm of their hand, or the crook of their arm."

But while some film icons might project preciousness or archness about being associated with such an important character, Fisher has rather gracefully pursued her own passion projects. She has settled into a life of scriptwriting, authoring memoirs and the occasional one-woman show; she also speaks out about mental health awareness, a cause close to her heart since she was diagnosed as bipolar when she was 28.

Still, she maintains and enjoys her ties to the Star Wars world.

"I don't take any of this very seriously," she says. "It was a really fun movie to make — not all the time, but it was fun to make, being a girl in an all-boy fantasy. ... People just love it. It's like a fairy tale, it's part of their youth, so there's something really innocent.

"It's the best part of people that like it."

Recently, Star Wars fans have been clamouring for information in the wake of J.J. Abrams's agreement to direct a proposed Episode VII, but they are being rebuffed at every turn.

At a high-profile convention in California over the weekend, the chairman of Walt Disney Studios was booed for not dispensing any details about Episode VII beyond its release date of summer 2015.

And while it has been widely rumoured that she, Mark Hamill and Harrison Ford will reprise their iconic roles in the new film, Fisher was tight-lipped, even when pressed for any detail.

"It's not for me to talk about. I'm someone with a big mouth, and I get in trouble every time I talk about something, so anything to do with this (Star Wars) is not my ... thing to discuss," she says.

Life's about to get crazy for Lily Collins

Mortal Instruments. Actress stars in the first instalment of the latest tween franchise to hit the big screen — and she's ready for it

NED EHRBAR
Metro World News in Hollywood

Mortal Instruments: City of Bones opens next Wednesday. CONTRIBUTED

Lily Collins is bracing herself for the long haul with Mortal Instruments: City of Bones, the first in what's hoped to be a franchise of films based on the successful book series looking to capture some of that Twilight and Hunger Games magic. With the second film already green-lit — and going into production in September — Collins likes to think she knows what she's in for.

What sort of mental preparation do you have to do before signing up for a franchise like this?
You have to really love the story. I was a fan of the books before I was cast, and I just think the story gets better and better. We hope that it goes to a sequel, and then the second that it gets green-lit to do a sequel you're like, "Aw, yes! I get to tell that part of the story now!" There are so many things in our movie that are introduced in the first book that you address in the movie that get cleared up ... later that you really want the chance to (explain) because it could leave you at a major cliffhanger and unresolved, you know what I mean? There are so many things that you have to be careful about, but I so badly want to get to that point where you can explain things. You sign on wanting to do that. You need to want to go there, not just, "I just want to do the first one." You need to love the whole story.

How do you approach the idea of spoilers when the film is based on a popular book series?
It's so weird. I don't know what I can say and what I can't say. It's in a book, and it's online. But then everyone's saying, "Don't remind them." I don't want to actively ruin the story for you. If you really wanted to know, you could totally find out, but I'm not going to be that person responsible.

You don't get that with a movie made from an original screenplay.
No, you don't. Then you have to sign those confidentiality agreements, and that's when it's like the forbidden fruit. When you're not supposed to say something, that's when you really, really want to say it. And then you just blurt it out without even knowing it.

How much do you pay attention to online fan discussions?
I think originally when I was cast I didn't quite understand the scope of the films or the books, and then all of a sudden all of these websites blasted up, and Twitter and Facebook and everything, and I was like, "Oh, it's actually really big." For every positive comment you find, you'll find five bad ones, so I really try to separate myself. It's exciting when people come up who are excited about things and that kind of gives me the extra drive to get through a long shooting day, but I think actively trying to find that stuff will only end up bringing you negativity as well. It's just not worth it. Already the articles aren't great, and then the comments just bring you down even further. "Like, I was so excited and now you've just made me upset. Thanks."

Simon Cowell

Divorce finalized by alleged mom of Cowell's baby

Lauren Silverman, the woman reportedly pregnant with Simon Cowell's child, has finally reached a divorce settlement with her husband, Andrew Silverman, according to TMZ. The couple has agreed to joint custody of their seven-year-old son, and Lauren stands to get a little more than $2 million. "As I've said all along, my priority was resolving this quickly for the sake of our son," Andrew says in a statement. "Lauren and I both love him very much and I'm looking forward to starting a new chapter in our lives."

Pattinson moves on by moving into new mansion

Robert Pattinson has some comfortable new digs. The actor — who previously shared a home with ex-girlfriend Kristen Stewart — is reportedly renting a swanky mansion in a gated community in Beverly Hills, according to E! News. The Mediterranean-style home is estimated to be worth $3.5 million. "It's very beautiful, but it does not have a lot of furniture. You can tell he has not lived there for very long," a source says. "It is very sparse right now."

Dominic Monaghan

Lost star in a vicious game of he said, she said

Lost star Dominic Monaghan apparently doesn't take rejection well. A young Los Angeles woman — who wishes to remain anonymous — says that she was on the receiving end of some vile and hurtful text messages from Monaghan after she turned him down for sex, according to Radar Online. One particularly rough message reads: "When did I ever say I wanted to have sex with you? You appear riddled with herpes and smell odd. I couldn't invite you to one of my three houses (because) I'd be nervous you would steal s—." Monaghan confirms the texts are from him, but he says there's more to the story. "I wonder if you are aware that she has been calling me for over two years when I have repeatedly asked her not to," he tells the website. "Today I told her again via text that her behaviour was troubling to me and for her not to contact me."

I think I'm pregnant.

Young and carefree: The WWE's first openly gay wrestler

MELINDA TAUB
Metro World News in New York City

Professional wrestling doesn't get a whole lot of ink around the ol' Word, because wrestlers, as a rule, neither party with Justin Bieber nor appear naked on Game of Thrones (although they're more than welcome to do either). But this story is too sweet not to share. TMZ caught up with WWE superstar Darren Young and asked him if he thought a gay wrestler could make it in the WWE. Young — who was remarkably good-natured about the whole thing, given that TMZ apparently ran him down at the baggage carousel in LAX — replied, "Absolutely. Look at me. I'm a WWE superstar and to be honest with you, I'll tell you right now, I'm gay. And I'm happy. I'm very happy." Young seemed utterly cheerful about his revelation. "I just don't think it matters. Does it matter to you?" he asked his interviewer, who responded, "Not one iota." The WWE superstar added that he's not worried about how his revelation will be received in the wrestling world. "I'm happy with myself. Some people might not like it, some people will like it," he shrugged. Young is the first openly gay WWE wrestler, and the first ever pro wrestler to come out while signed to a major promotion.

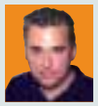
Liquid Assets

Calling all coffee lovers



LIQUID ASSETS
Peter Rockwell

Pairing wine with a great meal is one of life's simple pleasures. While most will agree, I bet the majority of you typically enjoy your vino as a standalone experience.

Winemakers know this, and have been steering a lot of their juice in a direction that tastes best sipped over casual conversation.

South Africa, long a producer of unique, value-oriented liquid, has been at the forefront of the wine-as-a-cocktail trend; riding the wave by taking advantage of the distinctive personalities imparted into its wine by an exotic terroir and the utilization of oak to create unconventional flavours.

The pinotage grape has been South Africa's superstar for decades. It's always made laid-back wines but, with innovative barrel aging, some can take on the dominating expression of chocolate and coffee.

The Grinder 2012 Pinotage ($13.95 - $14.99) is java goodness in a glass, with balanced tannins, a ripe core of wild berry fruit and soft mocha finish. Definitely drinkable on its own, it's a perfect match with grilled meats and chocolaty desserts. PRICES REFLECT THE RANGE ACROSS THE COUNTRY. SOME PRODUCTS MAY NOT BE AVAILABLE IN ALL PROVINCES.

1. Preheat the oven to 350 F (175 C). Lightly coat a 9-inch (22 cm) square baking pan with cooking spray.

2. To make the brownie cake: Combine the sugar, oil, egg and vanilla in a bowl until well mixed. Add the cocoa and mix well. Add the flour, baking powder, yogurt and chocolate chips, mixing just until combined and smooth. Don't overmix. Pour the batter into the pan and gently spread.

3. To make the banana cake: Combine the sugar, oil, egg, vanilla and banana in a bowl until well mixed. Add the yogurt, flour, baking powder and baking soda. Mix until just combined. Pour over the brownie cake and with a wet knife spread to cover brownie

4. Bake 25 minutes or just until a tester comes out dry.

5. To make the icing: Blend all the icing ingredients in a blender or food processor until smooth. If too thick, add a few drops of water. Spread on the cake once cool, and serve.

Ingredients

Brownie Cake
- 2/3 cup granulated sugar
- 1/4 cup vegetable oil
- 1 egg
- 1 tsp vanilla extract
- 1/3 cup unsweetened cocoa powder
- 1/3 cup all-purpose flour
- 1 tsp baking powder
- 1/4 cup 2% plain yogurt (or 3% sour cream)
- 1/4 cup semisweet chocolate chips

Banana Cake
- 1/2 cup granulated sugar
- 3 tbsp vegetable oil
- 1 egg
- 1 tsp vanilla extract
- 1 large ripe banana, mashed
- 3 tbsp 2% plain yogurt
- 3/4 cup all-purpose flour
- 1 tsp baking powder
- 1/2 tsp baking soda

Icing
- 1/4 cup softened light cream cheese (about 2 oz/60 g)
- 2/3 cup icing sugar
- 1 1/2 tsp cocoa powder

Pucker up for Lemon Cheesecake

ROSE REISMAN

1. Preheat oven to 350 F. Spray a 9-inch square baking dish with vegetable oil. Mix all of the ingredients for the crust in bowl until the mixture comes together. Add more water if necessary. Pat the mixture into bottom of pan.

2. Place all ingredients for cheesecake in bowl of food processor and mix until smooth. Pour over crust and bake for 25 minutes or just until centre is almost set. Cool, then refrigerate. Cut into 12 squares. Garnish with berries and lemon zest.

Ingredients

Crust
- 1 1/2 cups graham crumbs
- 2 tbsp vegetable oil
- 2 tbsp granulated sugar
- 1 tbsp water

Cheesecake
- 1 lb light cream cheese
- 1/2 cup low fat sour cream
- 2 eggs
- 2 tsp grated lemon zest
- 3 tbsp lemon juice (or to taste)
- 3 tbsp flour
- 1 cup sugar

Garnish (optional)
- Fresh berries, lemon zest and mint leaves

This recipe makes enough for 12 cheesecake squares. COURTESY JEFF DE VERA

Fusion fare: BLT, meet pizza

This recipe serves four. MATTHEW MEAD/ THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

1. Heat grill to high. Once hot, reduce to medium.

2. Cut romaine heart in half lengthwise, keeping core intact. Using 1 tablespoon of oil, brush both halves with oil on all sides, then sprinkle with salt. Grill over direct heat until outer leaves char but the inside is still crisp, about 2 minutes per side. Transfer to cutting board and let cool. Trim off and discard tough end/core of each half, then slice crosswise into 1/2-inch-wide ribbons. Set aside.

3. Dust work surface lightly with grits or polenta, then roll out dough over it. Aim for dough to be about 1/4 inch thick. Brush liberally on both sides with olive oil.

4. Place dough on grill grates and close lid. Cook 4 minutes, or until bottom of the crust is marked and golden brown. Use tongs to transfer dough to rimless baking sheet, flipping it grilled side up. Turn off one side of grill or bank the charcoals to one side to prepare for cooking with indirect heat.

5. Drizzle olive oil over grilled side of dough. Spoon sauce over surface of pizza, then sprinkle with bacon and both cheeses. Using tongs to guide it, slide pizza off baking sheet and onto cooler side of grill. Cover and cook for 8 minutes, or until the cheese is melted.

6. Use tongs to return pizza to baking sheet. Top with romaine, season with salt and pepper. Slice and serve. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS/ ELIZABETH KARMEL, AUTHOR OF SOAKED, SLATHERED AND SEASONED.

Ingredients

- 1 heart of romaine lettuce
- Olive oil
- Kosher salt
- 1/4 cup uncooked grits or polenta, for rolling the dough
- 1 ball prepared pizza dough, at room temperature
- 1 cup tomato-basil sauce
- 8 strips centre-cut bacon, cooked and crumbled
- 3 oz blue cheese or brie, sliced or cubed
- 4 oz grated mozzarella cheese
- Ground black pepper

Only a beer bro? Wild for just wine? Break out!

Book. Go on, order that drink you're "too good" for. You might just have your mind blown.

ALISON BOWEN
Metro World News in New York

Wine drinkers might turn up their noses at a cold can of beer. And beer drinkers might have zero interest in a tall glass of cabernet.

But this can change, promises certified wine educator Jim Laughren. Constantly asked by women how to interest boyfriends and husbands in opening a great bottle of wine instead of cracking a beer at the end of a long day, he authored A Beer Drinker's Guide to Knowing and Enjoying Fine Wine.

He is sure the two drinking camps have something in common. "Wine drinkers can be just as bad as beer drinkers in their reluctance to cross the barrier," he says. But he's hoping both can taste the other side. How do you tug someone toward trying something new?

Think outside the glass for a pleasant surprise. ISTOCK

"You should appeal to their adventurousness," he says. Wine drinkers in particular might not realize all that goes into beer making — just as much complexity as wine making, Laughren promises.

Adds Kevin Faerkin, sommelier and general manager at the Grand Central Oyster Bar in New York City, "Generally if people say, 'I don't like beer,' I would guarantee that they haven't run the gamut of all the different kinds of beer there are in the world."

Tips

- Wine suggestions for beer lovers.

  Light lager lovers: cava, sauvignon blanc or a light red wine such as a Rioja crianza

  IPA or stout fans: brunello, Syrah, carmenere or a Bordeaux

- Beer suggestions for wine lovers.

  Red wine fans: saisons, doppelbocks and Belgian strong ales

  White wine fans: wheat beers, pilsners and brown ales

Anderson set to back up trash talk vs. Als

CFL. Riders cornerback up against former team on Saturday

It will be like old times for Dwight Anderson.

The Saskatchewan Roughriders' colourful cornerback faces his former Montreal teammates for the first time when the two clubs meet at Mosaic Stadium on Saturday. Anderson expects the banter between himself and Alouettes receiver Brandon London to be just as lively as it was when they practised together.

"Oh yeah, he likes to yap, I like to yap, so fun times, that's how I look at it," Anderson told reporters. "B London is a good guy, I respect all those guys over there.

"I was over there for two years, a bunch of good guys. It's almost the same thing we did last year in practice, 1s versus 1s all the time so it won't be anything new."

Anderson loves to talk and is very good at it. The five-foot-11, 188-pound defensive back is regarded as the one of the CFL's top trash talkers.

But Anderson can back up his words. Three times he's been named a West Division all-star and was a league all-star in 2010. He also helped Calgary win the Grey Cup in 2008.

The 32-year-old is also regarded as one of the CFL's top cover defenders. He gives a defensive co-ordinator the luxury of doubling up another downfield threat or leaving his secondary on an island to blitz linebackers and create more pressure on opposing quarterbacks.

However, Anderson also plays on the edge. Earlier this season, he was fined for objectionable conduct by the CFL for making a "throat slashing" gesture towards the Edmonton bench in a 39-18 season-opening win over the Eskimos. He was also penalized for being abusive towards officials, receiving two objectionable-conduct penalties in the contest.

But the much-travelled Anderson has 10 years of pro experience (NFL and CFL) and his veteran savvy is one reason the Riders (5-1) went after him this off-season as a free agent. Anderson and his Saskatchewan teammates will look to resume their winning ways following last week's 42-27 loss to Calgary. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Alfie addresses fallout with Sens

Speaking to reporters in Ottawa on Thursday, Daniel Alfredsson admitted contract negotiations — or lack thereof — were a big factor in his choice to sign a $5.5-million US, one-year contract with the Red Wings as a free agent on July 5 rather than remain with the only NHL team he's ever played for.

The 40-year-old former Ottawa Senators captain explained that his last contract had been structured under the assumption he would retire before the final year of the deal — the 2012-13 season — which was for $1 million.

"However, after the 2012 season, I told the Sens I wanted to play another season," Alfredsson said. "I also asked to look at a possible extension for this upcoming season at a fair amount to balance out the two years for both of us. They agreed.

"Sadly, the contract negotiations went nowhere."

Drouin springs for a bronze medal at track and field finals

In Canadian company.
Drouin joins two other Canucks with podium finishes at world championships

Derek Drouin wanted everyone to know his Olympic bronze medal last summer was no fluke.

He sent that message loud and clear Thursday at the world track and field championships, capturing another bronze in men's high jump and setting a Canadian record in the process.

The native of Corunna, Ont., cleared 2.38 metres to finish behind Bohdan Bondarenko of Ukraine, who won gold with a jump of 2.41. Mutaz Essa Barshim of Qatar took silver in 2.38 while reigning Olympic champion Ivan Ukhov of Russia finished fourth at 2.35.

"I wanted to prove this year that I deserved to be on the podium in London 2012, feels good to have accomplished that goal," Drouin said.

Drouin's bronze at the London Olympics was the lone Canadian medal in track and field last summer, but he has company in Moscow. Decathlete Damian Warner (bronze) and heptathlete Brianne Theisen-Eaton (silver) have also been on the podium at the world championships.

"I was joking after that I never thought I would only place third jumping 2.38 metres. I'm certainly not disappointed — it was an incredible competition," said Drouin. "I felt like 2.41 metres was attainable but it's always emotional when you set a personal best. Getting another one in the same competition was a daunting task. That height is definitely a realistic goal for me now." THE CANADIAN PRESS

Jays outlast Sox to earn another tight win

Starting pitcher Mark Buehrle outlasted Jake Peavy on Thursday as the Toronto Blue Jays edged the Boston Red Sox 2-1 for their second win in a row.

Buehrle (9-7) gave up 10 hits over seven innings but allowed just one run in a solid outing for the Blue Jays (56-65).

Peavy (9-5) was also up to the task, striking out four and giving up two runs — one earned — on five hits over six innings. Boston (72-51) had no trouble getting on base, but struggled to bring home its runners, stranding 12 on base.

Jose Bautista earned an infield single when Will Middlebrooks misplayed the ball at third base. Edwin Encarnacion's single up the middle then advanced Bautista to second. Lawrie drove Bautista home with another single to centre field, advancing Encarnacion to third with no outs. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Horoscopes

♈ Aries
March 21 - April 20
Are you happy with the way your life is going? If not then you must do something about it. Whether you see it as hard or easy, your life is, ultimately, nothing more than a choice. Reality will follow that choice.

♉ Taurus
April 21 - May 21
Don't waste time on things you cannot change. You have only a limited amount of time and energy at your disposal so your aims must be limited too. Focus on what you are good.

♊ Gemini
May 22 - June 21
See what happens today as a challenge rather than as a setback. Even if a friend or colleague lets you down, you should look on the bright side: It means one less person with whom to share the rewards!

♋ Cancer
June 22 - July 23
You may have to admit, if only to yourself, that a particular aim is going to stay beyond your reach, at least for now. So what? You've got plenty of others to go after.

♌ Leo
July 24 - Aug. 23
There is no such thing as luck and the sooner you realize that, the better your "luck" is likely to be. A social occasion will bring opportunities to meet new people and make important new contacts.

♍ Virgo
Aug. 24 - Sept. 23
There will be chaos today as those around you realize they have only limited time to get things done. Sit back with a smug look on your face as you are on top of your tasks.

♎ Libra
Sept. 24 - Oct. 23
The entry of Venus, your ruler, into your sign will encourage you to believe that life is good and about to get even better. Believing it will make it true.

♏ Scorpio
Oct. 24 - Nov. 22
You may lack enthusiasm today but that is not necessarily a bad thing. You have been so hard-working in recent weeks that you could probably do with a break. Take it.

♐ Sagittarius
Nov. 23 - Dec. 21
Even if you feel you have not achieved as much as you should have recently, don't let it worry you. In a matter of days you will be doing things you never dreamed you would be able to master. Have fun.

♑ Capricorn
Dec. 22 - Jan. 20
As Venus changes signs today, it's a good time to resolve outstanding disputes you may have with people in positions of power. Next time, try not to rub them the wrong way!

♒ Aquarius
Jan. 21 - Feb. 19
Someone will make you an offer you find hard to refuse but refuse it you must because the planets warn it will mean a mountain of extra work for you. The less you have to worry about the better.

♓ Pisces
Feb. 20 - March 20
You need some time to think through the changes that have taken place in your life in recent months. More importantly, you need some peace and quiet as you can't think clearly with voices coming at you from every direction. SALLY BROMPTON
